

Subject: PENDING Legal Name Changes - C&D Technologies, Power Electronics Division

While the sale was completed September 3, 2007, please be advised we are still in the process of changing and registering the legal names of all our WW locations. Since the legal process is not yet complete, the acquired C&D companies still continue to trade under their existing names.

Until the Murata Power Solutions name registrations are finalized, your correspondence with C&D Technologies should remain unchanged, such as in the areas of financial, purchasing, invoicing, shipping, etc.

Our target date for all of the acquired companies to be legally re-named is end-November at which point they will begin to trade under their new Murata Power Solutions company names.

As we approach the changeover, we will communicate in more detail the specific legal names in each location, what it will mean to our customers and suppliers, such as the "Remit To" logistics, and how we can work to achieve a smooth transition. If you would like these details sent to others in your company, please email transition@murata-ps.com with the contact information.