News Release

HY-LINE distribution appointment brings local design support and logistics to Murata Power Solutions' customers in Switzerland

Murata Power Solutions has appointed HY-LINE as a distributor for its products in Switzerland. HY-LINE, a subsidiary of the HY-LINE Group, will offer Murata Power Solutions' complete range of DC/DC Converters, AC/DC Power Supplies, Magnetics, Data Acquisition devices and Panel Meters.

The HY-LINE group is well established, employs 80 people, and has a turnover of 70 million Euros.

With offices located in Furlingen, Switzerland, and a sales force that possesses a strong power electronics engineering background, HY-LINE is well equipped and positioned to implement Murata Power Solutions' strategy of being close to the customer and providing technology focus, expertise and short response times.

Andreas Hanausek, EMEA Distribution Account Manager, Murata Power Solutions, commented: "We are delighted to name another professional Distributor as a partner to support our endeavour to deliver high quality products through local design-in support. In a territory recognised as one of the top design areas in Europe, HY-LINE will help Murata Power Solutions to face the challenges in this fast changing industry by providing close customer contact, technical expertise and first-class logistic services."
